Harrisburg, Penn., Feb. 3.-Despite the many pairs among the members of the Legislature for the rest of the week, there were more than enough present to make a quorum when the joint convention to ballot for a United States Senator met to-day. Almost all of the leaders have gone home, and the proceedings were a trifle monotonous, but there was no break in the ranks, and both sides have determined that there shall be none, unless it is to their individual advantage.

The ballot resulted as follows: Quay, 69: Jenks, 53: Dalzell, 12; Stewart, 7; Stone, 5; Widener, 2; Riter, 2; Huff, 7; Tubbs, 2; Irvin. 8; Grow, 1, and Rice, 1. Total, 164. Necessary to a choice, 83; no election. There will be no quorum present to-morrow, as both the Democrats and the anti-Quay Republicans have determined to stay out and prebecause of a fear that the Quay men who are paired may suddenly find themselves inside they should vote it would elect Quay, but it is THE NEW CONDITIONS WHICH WILL GOVERN thought that there is not a man so base on either side as to break his pair. Such an action has never been heard of in the Pennsylvania Legislature, and in the present case all pairs Yacht Club has now given out the conditions unare sure to be respected.

The Quay people are chafing under the in-sinuations of bad faith, and say that their opponents may have occasion to sing another song in the near future. In saying this the Quay people point to the fact that in Lebanon County to-day, where a primary election for nomination of a Republican candidate for Senator will be held to-morrow night, evidences of corrupt use of money by anti-Quay people have been discovered, and there is dismay in the anti-Quay

The fight in Lebanon between the Quay and anti-Quay forces has been waged bitterly for the last two weeks. Anti-Quay legislators from all over the State run down to Lebanon County in the evening and make speeches against the Beaver Senator, while local speakers have taken up the Quay side and are denouncing the foreign speakers and calling for home rule.

To-day affidavits were made by two voters to the effect that money had been paid and whickey given to them by the anti-Quay men to work against Quay's interests tomorrow night. The Quay people here are jubilant, and say their men in Lebanon, who exposed the plot, will apply for the $25,000 reward offered by the Business Men's League of Pennsylvania for the arrest and conviction of any person engaged in bribery in the present fight for Senator, insisting that the contest in Lebanon is part of the main fight. If the reward is refused they will bring suit, and the whole matter is likely to get into court in more ways than one.

The McCarrell bill, relating to the standing aside of jurors in felony and misdemeanor trials, was reported to the House from committee today, and it will be passed the first time on Monday evening. Its friends will then endeavor to force it through, in order that it may be a law before the trial of Quay for conspiracy comes off in Philadelphia on February 20. It is doubt-ful, however, if the trial will come off on that day, as ex-Treasurer Haywood, who is a co-defendant with the Quays, is ill at his home, and to remove him to Philadelphia would be fatal.

FUTILE BALLOTING IN DELAWARE. THE THIRTY-FOURTH ATTEMPT TO CHOOSE

There were only four members absent to-day, one Democrat and three Republicans, leaving forty-eight present, but the situation remains the same. A conference of the regular Republicans was held this evening in the parior of the Hotel Richardson, at which time the Senatorial contest was discussed, but no definite action oould be learned. It is rumored, however, that at to-morrow's voting further inducements will be held out to the Union Republicans, in which they will have the opportunity to elect a Republican Senator if they so desire.

This trophy remains in the custody of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club of Montreal, Canada, the last match therefor having been won by the Dominion against the Challenger at Lake St. Louis in August has. The Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club has challenged for a match in the season of 1899, and the challenge has been accepted for the 20-foot class. challenge has been accepted for the The protest against such acceptance, as made by the Inland Lake Yachting Association, on the ground that the Seawanhaka challenge was not complete until after the expiration of the thirty-day time limit, has been withdrawn.

The match will be sailed on the waters of Lake St. Louis, near Montreal, at times to be hereafter announced. The Seawanhaka club states that "in this third attempt to regain the cup it earnestly invites from other yacht clubs in the United States the co-operation which for the last four seasons has been so generously given," and therefore pro-poses to hold open trial races, for the purpose of decting its representative yacht, on July 8, 10 and 11 of this year.

The general regulations to govern the coming match have been agreed upon by the two clubs chiefly interested, as permitted in Article XI of the trust instrument, and in this agreement are some important innovations controlling the building of the craft which will contest in trial and final races. The principal of these is Article IX, which says the over-all length must not exceed 82 feet 6 inches. The deck plan must show a fair curve from transom to stem, and the sides of the feck gunwales must meet together at the stem, which must be on the longitudinal centre line of the vessel. The angle between the gunwales and longitudinal centre line of the vessel at the stem must not exceed 35 degrees."

These yachts will still be measured by the old length-and-sail area rule, and must not exceed 20 feet in racing length. The draught of hull or keel shall not exceed five feet, and, with the centreboard down, shall not exceed six feet. Draught shall be determined when yachts are in trim for measurement. Centreboards shall be so constructed that they can be wholly housed without having any projection below the hull or keel. eighted centreboards shall be considered as fixed The sail area is limited to 500 square feet, of which the area of the mainsail shall not exceed 80 per cent.

the first point for Old Ell on a pass from Stoddard after five minutes of play. Twelve minutes later Stoddard scored on a pass from Parnett and the first half closed 2 to 0 in favor of the New-Haven aggregation. The second period was rougher and faster than the first. Stoddard secured the puck.
